LION CREEK CROSSINGS

This is an aerial view of the new Lion Creek Crossings housing. Thanks to EBALDC and OHA this new development is a long way from the former Coliseum Gardens or 69 Village, as the area was once called.

This project is a testament to the potential of community transformation and change and should stand as a model that can be replicated in community across the country. One of the unique factors is the collaboration of resident and family services, including training and support.

Being across the street from Coliseum Bart and across the railroad tracks from the Oakland Coliseum Complex. We are planning the grand opening a new computer training center for residents in January 2008. Stay tuned for more information.
